

BIOL 101: Anatomy & Physiology I

An integrated study of the anatomy and physiology of human organ systems with a focus on homeostasis and the role of cellular processes involved with maintaining that homeostasis. Topics include basic cell biology and histology, skin, skeletal, reproductive, endocrine, cardiovascular, and immune systems. Does not apply toward a biology major or minor. 3 Theory 1 Lab. Lab fee.

Credits: 4

Lab Hours: 3

Lecture Hours: 3

Program: Biological Sciences

Semester Offered: Fall