

COMM 115: Group Communication

A study of the democratic methods used to solve problems and conduct business in various kinds of group organizations. Includes a number of traditional face-to-face group activities as well as individual presentations.

Credits: 3

Program: Communication

Semester Offered: Spring even years