BIOL 210: Introduction to Geographic Information Systems

This course is designed to provide students with a basic, hands-on introduction to Geographic Information Systems (GIS). Students will be taught the basic tools and skills needed for using GIS software, specifically QGIS, to capture, analyze, manage, and display spatial and non-spatial data.

Credits: 3
Program: Biological Sciences
Semester Offered: Spring even years