

CRIJ 325: Criminology

An overview of the major causal theories of criminal behavior and examination of the social, political, economic, and intellectual milieu within which each arose. Beginning with early 18th century theories, the course focuses on the sociological constructs of criminality.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites:

SOCI 111

or permission of instructor.

Program: History & Social Science