

NURS 313: Pathophysiology

This course is designed to provide basic concepts to gain understanding of the pathophysiology of common diseases. Physiological changes from pathophysiological processes are explored within the framework of body systems. Alterations resulting from normal aging and some diseases common to children are also integrated into this course. 3 Theory

Credits: 3

Prerequisites:

All 200 level nursing courses or permission of instructor

Program: Nursing

Semester Offered: Fall

Spring