

POLS 360: American National Government

The organization, functions, and processes of America's national government, with particular attention to constitutional framework, the judiciary, Congress, the presidency, political parties, interest groups, and the individuals as citizen.

Credits: 3

Program: History & Social Science

Semester Offered: Periodically