Southwestern Adventist University's Communication Department offers three emphasis areas of study: 1) Advertising & Public Relations, 2) Online Media, and 3) Radio-TV-Film. Our department prepares students to be effective Christian communicators. This includes developing skills in personal interaction, writing, creating media content, and managing the elements of communication technology. In addition, students will learn about the newest forms of convergence and interaction in the areas of radio, television, film, online media, advertising, and public relations, including photography and social media. Communication majors receive hands-on experience in our Mac lab, our three audio/video editing suites as well as our radio and television stations.

Job Market

The communication job market is very broad. Just a few positions Southwestern communication graduates have held include hospital vice president, graphic artist, television producer, newspaper editor, radio station manager, photographer, public relations director, television news reporter, and author. Our graduates who have gone on to graduate school have done so very successfully, entering careers in law, business, and pastoral ministry.

Job Outlook

The job outlook in the broad communication field is very bright. More companies are hiring, and students aren't just finding good opportunities, some are weighing multiple offers. Internships often turn into full-time positions.

Earnings

Earnings potential for graduates with communication degrees varies widely depending on many factors including the geographic location, the industry you choose, position, skills, and experience. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (May, 2019), the median annual income for film and video editors is $59,810, while producers and directors earn a median annual wage of $74,420. Multimedia artists earn a median annual income of $75,270.

Most entry-level positions in the many fields of communication may be obtained with an undergraduate degree. However, a graduate degree in communication will often provide career advantages.
